

New Partnership with Ajou University, Korea

On May 30th, 2008, Keio University School of Medicine has entered into the agreement with Ajou University School of Medicine to establish a new partnership towards the development of academic cooperation including student exchange. Dr. Makoto Suematsu, Dean of School of Medicine, attended the signing ceremony at Ajou University. There was a symposium held to commemorate the conclusion.

Ajou University, established in 1973, is located in Swon city with a university hospital. Under the agreement, a variety of cooperative programs will be carried out including exchange of faculty and students and joint research and consultancy activities. Keio University will be receiving 2 students from Ajou University in June, 2008.
