

June 17, 2022
Keio Graduate School of Medicine

Changes in the AY2024 Entrance Examination (held in AY2023)

Changes to the English-Language Written Examination Portion of the Entrance Examination

Beginning with the AY2024 Entrance Examination (held in AY2023), the following changes will be made to the English-language written examination.

The Graduate School of Medicine will continue to administer an English-language written examination. Applicants can be exempted from the written examination if they take the TOEFL iBT or IELTS and submit their scores as official proof of English language skills (photocopies accepted).

Standard score:

TOEFL iBT: 80+

IELTS: 6.0+

Tests must have been taken on or after June 1 two years prior to the year of application to the graduate school and must be submitted within the application period. For example, if you are taking the entrance examination held in AY2023, your score should be from a test taken on or after June 1, 2021.