

Keio-Cologne Public Lecture

"Getting Old and Even Older –Pathways to Longevity and Implications for Society"

May 30, 2019
5 pm – 6 pm

<Venue>

North Hall of North Building
Keio University Mita Campus

<PROGRAM>

"The Mystery of Human Aging: The Surprising Insights of a Science That's Still Young"

Prof. Björn Schumacher

*Institute for Genome Stability in Aging and Disease, Medical Faculty, Cologne Excellence Cluster for Cellular Stress
Responses in Aging-Associated Diseases (CECAD) Research Centre and Centre for Molecular Medicine (CMMC), University of Cologne*

"Supercentenarian Study in Japan: Toward a deeper understanding of healthy longevity"

Asst. Prof. Yasumichi Arai

Center for Supercentenarian Medical Research, Keio University School of Medicine

University of Cologne Faculty of Medicine and Keio University School of Medicine kicked off a strategic partnership in 2018 under the banner of "Aging & Longevity". Both universities are leaders in the field of aging research and commonly organize this public lecture as part of their second "Keio-Cologne Joint Symposium on Aging & Longevity".

Lecture will be offered in English only.

Inquiry: International Office, Keio University School of Medicine
E-Mail: ic-shinanomachi@adst.keio.ac.jp Tel: 03-5363-3473

